Michigan Law to Impact Bloomfield Hills

by Mayor Michael T. Zambricki

There is cause for optimism in the City of Bloomfield Hills despite the challenges we face due to the housing bust. While home values continue to decline, the Detroit News and Free Press reported recently that Bloomfield Hills' home prices have declined less than in surrounding communities. But our fiscal challenges remain.

We have worked hard to improve our financial picture by increasing efficiencies and decreasing expenses, eliminating over $1 million in annual costs in the process. There is still more work to do to build a solid financial future for our city during these tough times.

Like many cities across America we have significant unfunded liabilities related to employee legacy costs. Ten years ago, City pension obligations were 100% funded. Today, with many employees retiring at a relatively young age and the impact of a falling stock market on the Michigan employee pension fund, our $12 million future pension obligation is only 57% funded. A decade ago, our retiree health care could be easily paid out of the general fund. Today, a new accounting rule requires that a trust fund be established for retiree health care. Our $11 million retiree health care obligation is only 4% funded. We are now paying more for health care benefits for our retired employees than for our active employees. Increasing taxes without decreasing legacy costs will merely "kick the can" to burden citizens in the future.

In response to the escalating costs of Michigan municipal employee benefits and retirement packages, a state law was recently passed that allows cities to decide how they will pay for health care costs. In the past, cities were required to negotiate and engage in a mandatory arbitration process with unions that compared one city's benefit plan against another, but could not include private sector benefit plans. Most municipal plans were similar to the benefit plans in Bloomfield Hills. Therefore, under Act 312 arbitration, it was virtually impossible for the city to match cost-saving trends in the private sector. The City health care cost in our 2005 fiscal year was $732,370 but has grown to $1,320,000 in 2012.

Continued... Michigan Law to Impact Bloomfield Hills

By way of example, the cost of our public safety family coverage health care plan is over $24,300 per year. City employees currently pay $200 per year for their health care coverage. Under Michigan's new Publicly Funded Health Insurance Contribution Act, a city has three options. It can: (1) limit annual city contributions to $15,000 for a family plan and require employees to pay the remainder; or (2) pay 80% of its health care costs and require employees to pay 20%; or (3) opt out of the law's requirements entirely by a 2/3 vote of the City Commission.

This new law takes effect when current union contracts expire. Unions representing Bloomfield Hills employees have requested that we opt out of the cost-sharing requirement. Opting out means that we would continue with the current process of negotiation and arbitration.

We are fortunate to have an exceptionally talented and dedicated workforce. We will continue to support our employees by offering the best benefit package that we can afford. We have invited our unions to work with us to achieve a "win-win" strategy by finding ways for both the City and our employees to pay less. During the last bargaining sessions, our unions agreed to change benefit levels for new hires, which will improve the city's financial position over time. This gain is appreciated but will be slow, as the City has no turnover aside from retirement and no new union hires have occurred since the last contract was approved.

The City Commission has not changed its respect and gratitude for our excellent employees, but does intend to reduce costs associated with employee benefits in keeping with trends across the country. These trends are rooted in the reality of financial challenges facing cities today, compounded by increased benefit costs and decreasing property values.

We are seeking innovative ways to improve our financial future. I invite you to call me with ideas, questions or concerns at 248-646-4509, or email me at mtzambricki@yahoo.com. We are dedicated to move forward in a manner that is transparent and fair to both our employees and taxpayers.

Your Input is Needed

City to Conduct A Satisfaction Study

In early 2012, the City will be conducting a satisfaction survey of all citizens that are registered voters in Bloomfield Hills.

The City will be sending the survey to 3,320 registered voters. In December 2011, the City Commission hired Cobalt Community Research to develop and administer a mail-in survey that will ask residents to provide their opinions and perceptions on City services. The results of the survey will be used as part of the City's budgeting and planning processes.

Cobalt Community Research is a nonprofit research coalition created to provide governmental organizations and other associations access to high-quality research at a more reasonable rate through pooling than what is available in the private sector. Cobalt has conducted surveys for many municipalities in our area including Bloomfield Hills Schools, Ferndale, Pleasant Ridge and the Grosse Pointe communities. Cobalt is located in Lansing.

Cobalt will be developing the survey instrument in the next few weeks. Cobalt will develop the questions with the City Commission providing input on the topics to be covered in the survey.

The survey should be in resident mailboxes in February. Respondents to the survey will be given the opportunity to submit their responses in the mail or through an online portal. It is expected the survey deployment will take about six weeks. Results of the survey should be completed by mid-March.

City Financial Update Winter 2011-2012

by Commissioner Sarah McClure

In November, the City of Bloomfield Hills auditors presented our audited financial report for the year ending June 30, 2011. Their report can be found on the City website.

The Commission and staff have made significant progress in finding efficiencies and cutting costs. In fiscal year ending June 30, 2009, Total Expenditures were $9.3 million dollars.

The past year shows Total Expenditures at $8.16 million. This greater than $1 million reduction in cost was accomplished without cutting staff or services. We actually achieved a surplus, the majority of which we applied to our Long Term Liabilities (Legacy costs and other Long term Debt). Normally we reserve $1 million each year to our Long Term OPEB Liabilities (Other Post Employment Benefits); this past year we designated $1.5 million.

The economic environment continues to be challenging. Because taxable value used for tax purposes lags actual sales by 12-18 months, we may be looking at least another year or so of property tax revenue declines. If Oakland County forecasts are correct, we will have lost over 25% of our revenues over a five year period. In the fiscal year starting June 30, 2012, the County is anticipating a $400,000 decline in City property tax revenues. When property values do start increasing, the City will be limited to the 5% Headlee Amendment increase or the rate of inflation, whichever is less.

Next year's budget process will begin this winter. On the positive side, our per employee health care cost from Blue Cross has declined with the adoption of Health Saving Accounts (HSA) accounts for some, although not all of our employees. (Our non HSA health care cost for a family runs about $24,300 but with HSA accounts it drops by about 29%). On the negative side, due to several retirements and long term worker compensation cases, we are experiencing significantly higher overtime costs. The Commission and staff are currently discussing hiring some additional PSO officers to alleviate the situation.

The Commission is committed to continuing with our road repair and replacement projects. We are redoing Kensington South ($990,000 estimate) and Epping Lane ($275,000) next year. The City has also started a program to replace sections of deteriorating roads that need to be done before the entire road can be replaced. Although we have allocated the funds to do these projects, our roads will require millions of dollars to address their condition over the long term. We need to determine if we issue any of the previously approved remaining $3 million in road bonds to move more aggressively on future projects.

Last year the City of Bloomfield Hills had the lowest millage rate of all 31 cities in Oakland County. However, our $32.3 million dollars of Long Term Liabilities, comprised of $22 million Pension and OPEB costs and $10.3 million in other Long-term Debt such as roads, leases, and water and sewer debt, continue to put pressure on the Commission and staff to find smarter and more efficient ways to operate. As we navigate these difficult financial times, we remain committed to providing the services our residents expect, attracting and retaining the best employees, maintaining our AAA bond rating and keeping the millage rate as low as possible.

“Recent changes in City Ordinances: by Larry Rospierski, Building Official

Significant changes in two City zoning ordinances affect many of our residents. Highlights of each ordinance change are:

Chapter 24, Article IV, section 24-229, pertaining to fences, walls, gates, and more:

- Permits are required for all fence installations;
- Rear yard fencing up to 6' high may be approved by the Building Official. All other locations of fencing must be approved by the Planning Commission;
- Types and styles of fencing have been strictly defined in the ordinance;
- Installation of front yard gates and walls has been restricted by definition and locations;
- Masonry mailboxes are no longer permitted;
- For specific wording and requirements, refer to our website (then codes and ordinances, then “Municode”).

Chapter 24, Article IV, section 24-242, pertaining to side yard installations of air conditioners, generators and heat pumps:

- Side yard installations may now be approved by the Building Official if location, decibel and screening requirements are met;
- If requirements are not met, then approval must be sought from the Zoning Board of Appeals;
- Mechanical and electrical permits are always required. If there is not an active building permit at the property, then a minimum fee building permit is also required;
- Site plans for ALL installations are required to be submitted with the applications.
- For specific wording and requirements, refer to our website (then codes and ordinances, then “Municode”).

It's worth repeating:

Building permits are required for additions and alterations even if no “structural” work is involved. Virtually all of the electrical, plumbing, and heating/AC work conducted in the State requires a permit. A complete list of all activities that require a permit may be found on our website. If there are any questions, it is always best to check with the Building Department. (Call Larry Rospierski, Building Official, at 248-530-1408). The permit places the responsibility for the job on the applicant, so beware the contractor who wants you to pull a homeowner’s permit: You then could be liable for the contractor’s work.

Watchword: Always have the contractor pull his own permit. There are no cost savings in homeowner permit fees whatsoever.

The State law requires that all contracts in excess of $600.00 be performed by licensed Builders or Maintenance & Alteration Contractors. Builders are licensed to do any task in residential construction, while M&A contractors are only licensed for their specific task. If you hire an improperly licensed individual to work on your home, the State has no recourse in the instance of a dispute.

Watchword: Only hire licensed contractors authorized to perform the task for which they are quoting. (We check all licenses when applications for permits are received. Permits are NOT issued to unlicensed parties.)

Final Watchwords: Permits, licensing and inspections work hand in hand to provide the ultimate protection of the homeowner. It is in the property owner’s best interest to insist that only properly licensed contractors pull permits for the work they are contracted to do. And then, it is in your best interest to withhold final payment until the work has been inspected and approved by the City inspectors.

Update on City Commercial Developments

By Commissioner Michael McCready

In the past year the current Commission has worked with the two previously approved PUDs (Planned Unit Developments) in an effort to make them more in keeping with the City of Bloomfield Hills. As many of you know the PUD development concept is typically utilized to work with a developer of a larger development to not use the typical variance process.

The Damone project first approved in the spring of 2009 has been changed significantly. The building is now one story lower than initially approved and now has a red brick exterior. The total occupancy has decreased from 194 units to 146 units. There are fewer independent units and more skilled nursing. We believe the project will break ground next year in the fourth quarter. My last conversion with Mike Damone is that his financing is moving forward.

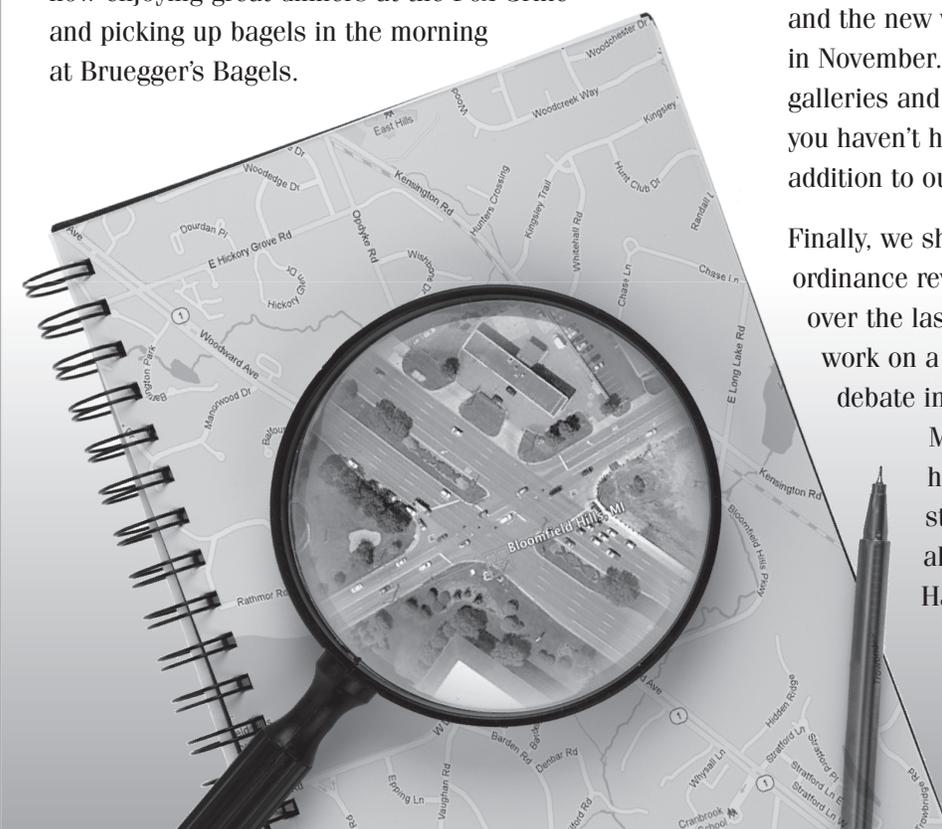

The Jonna project on the corner of Woodward and Long Lake is now currently 40% occupied. The Commission worked with the developer to resolve some outstanding issues such as signage color and size. Many of us are now enjoying great dinners at the Fox Grille and picking up bagels in the morning at Bruegger's Bagels.

We appreciate the willingness of the developers of these two PUD projects to work with us to make their projects even better than initially designed.

Cranbrook Educational Community has completed two large projects in the past year. The new $16 million 47,000 square foot Girls Middle School opened last spring and the new wing to the Cranbrook Art Museum opened in November. There are over 8,000 square feet of restored galleries and 20,000 square feet new Collections wing. If you haven't had a chance to visit this exciting new addition to our community, I encourage you to do so.

Finally, we should all thank the members of our ordinance review committee that have donated their time over the last 7 months to update our city ordinances, work on a tree ordinance that will be open for public debate in January. Walt Cueter, Connie Salloum, Mike Zambricki, Virginia Fox and Jay Cravens, have volunteered hours of their time to study and updates our ordinances. Hope you all had a wonderful holiday season and a Happy New Year.

Woodlands Protection Ordinance

By Commissioner Connie Salloum

The Planning Commission has assigned its sub committee, the Ordinance Task Force, to draft a Tree and Woodlands Protection Ordinance for consideration.

Along with me, other Task Force members are Mayor Mike Zambricki, Walter Cueter, Virginia Fox and Jay Cravens. In keeping with The Master Plan, the goal of the ordinance is to protect the character and value of our community not only for the natural beauty of trees but also for the many health and environmental advantages that they provide. In developing the draft of the ordinance, the committee considered a range of issues including aesthetics, resident expectations and general standards used in other communities. Surprisingly, Bloomfield Hills is one of only a few communities in our area that does not have a tree protection ordinance. During the next few months, the Planning Commission will consider the specifics of the plan and input from residents and other interested parties, then present a recommendation to the City Commission regarding adoption. The City Commission will in turn consider the proposal, including further input from the community before rendering a decision to adopt the proposal. Please refer to the website to download the latest draft of the proposed ordinance.

City Accepts Landscape Donation

Bloomfield Hills received an unusual but generous donation valued over $11,400 from Mr. Michael Curis this past November. Mr. Curtis donated the landscape plantings that were recently installed on the utility island at the corner of Vaughan Road and Long Lake Road. The landscape plantings chosen for this area are drought tolerant, as this utility island does not have an irrigation system. This summer, Bloomfield Hills' residents will be able to enjoy four planting areas on the utility island. The plantings consist of numerous Grow Low sumac, Knockout roses, dwarf fountain grasses and daylilies that will re-bloom. Maintenance of the planting areas will also be provided for two years through future donations from Mr. Curis. On behalf of Bloomfield Hills, we thank you and welcome you to our community.

Tree Initiative Achieves Goal!

by Commissioner Sarah McClure

Due to the generosity of 42 donors, the City of Bloomfield Hills has recently planted 158 trees in the Woodward median. Seventeen varieties of trees were selected, including Serbian spruce, maples, oaks, river birches, flowering pear, and crabapples.

Donations have continued to arrive at City Hall and we should be able to plant an additional group of trees next spring to fill in some of the gaps. We received donations totaling $84,854. This project was accomplished by the funds or in kind donations from the following non-profits, businesses, and individuals:

Kenneth Albrecht
 Azimuth Capital Management LLC
 Troy and Gail Barnhart

We especially want to thank Cranbrook Educational Community President, Rick Nahm for helping us with our letters to members of our community.

We would also like to thank James "Jim" Scott, founder of James C. Scott & Associates for their donation of professional services. Jim Scott and Ben Weaver provided us with assistance in developing the tree planting plans and coordinated the installation of trees in the Woodward medians. We would also like to mention KLM Landscape for the marvelous trees and their installation.

Thank you!

If we have forgotten anyone, please let us know and we will publish your name in the next newsletter.

Special Household Waste Program

What is Special Household Waste?

Many common household products can pose a hazard to human health, groundwater, and the environment if they are not handled properly for disposal. Placing items such as paint, automotive fluids, compact fluorescent light (CFL) bulbs, medical waste, and more in our trash is NOT the most environmentally sound way to get rid of them. SOCRRA's Special Household Waste program offers residents convenient and efficient means of disposing these products. There is no direct charge for this service. The City of Bloomfield Hills will be assessed for disposal costs.

The SOCRRA Facility is located at 991 Coolidge in Royal Oak. Call: 248-288-5153, Monday – Friday, 9am to 4pm to schedule an appointment.

COMPUTERS AND OTHER ELECTRONICS

Old electronic equipment from homes can be recycled through this program. SOCRRA accepts computer monitors, CPUs, printers, TVs, radios, telephones, cell phones, fax machines, stereos, and DVD, VCR, and CD players.

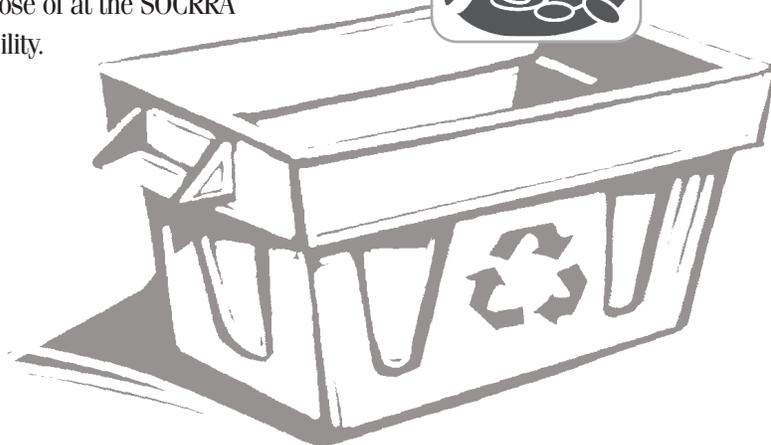

COMPACT FLUORESCENT LIGHT BULBS

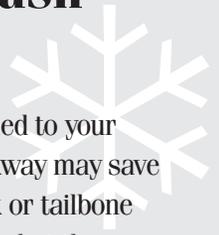

A CFL bulb is made of glass, a ceramic and metal base, a powder called phosphor, and a small amount of mercury. The best way to get rid of unbroken bulbs is to recycle them through SOCRRA.

MEDICATIONS

Don't take a chance on contaminating the groundwater or drinking water. Empty all of your unused/expired medicine into an unmarked Ziploc bag and dispose of at the SOCRRA Disposal Facility.

Just a Dash Will Do

Deicing salts applied to your driveway and walkway may save yourself from neck or tailbone injuries this winter, but they can spell disaster for your landscape plants and nearby lakes and streams. Much of the salt flows with melted water into the Rouge River and nearby streams. Apply salts only when necessary and moderately to protect our local waterways.

You can reduce pollution of local streams, lakes and landscape vegetation by selecting the proper materials and methods for removing ice and snow.

- ▶ Ice melting products are most effective when spread thinly and evenly over the pavement prior to ice formation. It is much easier to prevent ice than to try and melt a thick layer of ice.
- ▶ Use alternatives, such as clean cat litter or sawdust to help improve traction on ice (sand is NOT recommended for residential use).
- ▶ If possible, use less salt than is recommended by the manufacturer.
- ▶ Add a small amount of water with the deicer to help initiate melting.
- ▶ Protect your plants with burlap or durable plastic screens to shield them from traffic splash.
- ▶ Try using more salt-tolerable plants. Check with your local landscaper to find out what is best suitable for your needs.

Baldwin Library Welcomes City Residents

by Commissioner Pat Hardy

Good news stories abound concerning our new relationship with the Baldwin Public Library, beginning with six year old Caroline Baxter who went with her mother early on the morning of November 15—the first day City residents could obtain their library card—to get hers. “She was so excited about checking out books that wild horses couldn’t have stopped her!”

Hills residents have experienced red carpet service from Baldwin’s Staff, eager to help in any way possible. Need remedial computer instruction, or help downloading e-books to Kindles and other devices? Baldwin is the place to go!

According to Library Director, Doug Koschik, in the first month of library service, 229 Hills residents have signed up for cards and checked out a total of 976 items.

You can get your card by simply going to the library with a valid photo ID (driver’s license, passport, state ID card) showing your current address, or find out more detailed information at: <http://baldwinlib.org/library-cards-2>. With your card you can access Baldwin’s electronic databases from home. Among the databases included are:

- Value Line
- Morningstar
- Consumer Reports
- Mango Languages
- Health Reference Center
- Chilton Car Repair

Encyclopedias—such as, Britannica, American and World Book

Newspapers— such as, the New York Times, Wall Street Journal and Washington Post.

Your library card will allow you to download the Library’s 4,800 e-books and 3,300 downloadable audio books. Instructions can be found at: <http://baldwinlib.org/download-audiobooks-ebooks>.

Make a New Year’s Resolution to discover the many good programs offered at the Baldwin, and stop by soon to get your card and acquaint yourself with all that it has to offer. Before you know it, <http://baldwinlib.org> will be as easy to remember as your own email address!

Baldwin Library Service for Our Students

By Doug Koschik, Baldwin Library Director

As a result of its new contract with the City of Bloomfield Hills, the Baldwin Public Library will be cooperating fully with all schools serving the students of Bloomfield Hills. This includes the Birmingham Public Schools, the Bloomfield Hills (Public) Schools, and all private schools.

The Baldwin Library already has a longstanding and close relationship with the Birmingham Public Schools, and carefully coordinates its programming and collections with them. In early 2012, Baldwin will reach out to the Bloomfield Hills Schools and private schools located in the Hills, and intends to establish a close and fruitful relationship with those as well.

So remember: Every student living in the City has full privileges at Baldwin.

These include unlimited checkouts of print and audiovisual materials; the ability to place holds on items; interlibrary loan of materials not available at Baldwin; full use of the Library's e-books, downloadable audio books, and subscription databases; and participation in all programs, including the summer reading program.

And if you are homeschooling your children, be sure to take advantage of Baldwin's materials and programs. You might be especially interested in the Parent and Teacher Resource collections in our Youth Room.

The telephone number of the Library's Youth Services Department is 248-554-4670. The Adult Services Department, which helps students in middle and high school, can be reached at 248-554-4650. Feel free to call and seek the advice of our friendly and knowledgeable librarians!

Bloomfield Hills Highlights Also Available Electronically

In an effort to reduce expenditures the City will be limiting the publication of the Hills Highlights in print form to twice a year. Printed versions of the City's newsletter will be printed in the early summer and fall.

In 2010, the City launched an electronic version of the Hills Highlights. The electronic version of Hills Highlights will be available about six times a year. For those interested in subscribing please visit the Bloomfield Hills website at:

www.bloomfieldhillsmi.net.

The process only takes a minute to sign up.
